A Gift Too Precious to Keep to Ourselves

Matthew 25:14-30

> When God instructs our hearts with the knowledge of his kingdom, it isn't the kind of thing we can keep to ourselves. It must be shared. When this knowledge is shared, it bears fruit in others and deepens our own understanding of the mysteries of God's kingdom. This knowledge cannot bear fruit or grow if we stifle it and bury it, ensuring that neither we nor those around us hear it.

FROM THE PASTOR'S DESK

My Dear Parishioners,

During his time on this earth, our Savior consistently reminded us that we must remain vigilant. We do not know the day or the hour when our Father will call us back to himself; therefore, we must always be ready for that moment. In this vein, St. Paul reminds us that "the day of the Lord will come like a thief at night." But he continues, we are children of the light and of the day. We know that our Father will call us home, and we know that our Savior will return, so we are able to prepare ourselves for this moment. Instead of resting in the supposed security that this world offers, we must be alert and sober-minded in preparing.

The author of Proverbs and St. Matthew give us images of what this vigilant preparation looks like. From Proverbs, we hear the author sing the praises of a good wife. She is dedicated to her work of providing for her family, caring for the poor, and giving praise to the Lord. Her virtue shines forth among all the people, and her works are praised "at the city gates." Remember that ancient cities were fortified with walls, and the only place to enter or exit the city was at the gate. Usually, the king and elders of the city would be at the city gates rendering judgment, making decisions, and doing the work of leading the city. To be praised at the city gates means that everyone would know the wonders of this woman and hold her in high regard.

In the parable of the talents from St. Matthew, our Lord calls us to be as industrious and prudent as the woman in Proverbs, because we will one day give an account of what we have done with what we have been given. There is much more here, though, because this parable is both easily understood and surprisingly profound. Most of us recognize that the parable is a reminder that we are not to squander the gifts we've been given and that God expects us to use what he's given us, not to hide it away and bury it. The parable does not deny that this call is demanding: the third steward certainly sees it that way!

But our reaction to this parable can change greatly depending on what we understand the "talents" to symbolize. If the talents represent money or material goods, then perhaps we could understand that God wants us to use these to build up his church and give to the poor, but the severe consequences for the third servant seem unjust in this case. If the talents represent natural abilities or spiritual gifts, then it makes a little more sense. We can use and grow these sorts of gifts no matter what the circumstances of our lives. Still, it doesn't quite seem right. These answers all fit, to an extent, especially when we consider the virtuous woman in Proverbs; however, they still leave us (or at least me!) dissatisfied with the conclusion.

There must be another way to understand these talents. The answer, perhaps, lies earlier in St. Matthew's Gospel. In Matthew 13:10, the disciples ask our Lord why he speaks in parables. He responds, "Because knowledge of the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven has been granted to you, but to them it has not been granted. To anyone who has, more will be given and he will grow rich; from anyone who has not, even what he has will be taken away." (Mt 13:11-12) The similarity in structure and wording here is fascinating, and it invites us to consider that the talents are something more fundamental than our possessions or our abilities. If "talents" meant "knowledge of the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven," it would shed a whole new light on the parable. God gives an incredible gift to those who receive knowledge of the mysteries of heaven.

When God reveals something, whether to a prophet in the Old Testament or to a person striving to perceive the mysteries of heaven right now, it is always a gift to be shared. I love how Jeremiah expresses this truth. Frustrated that God's message was being rejected (and a bit frustrated by the message itself, honestly!), he said, "I say I will not mention him, I will no longer speak in his name. But then it is as if fire is burning in my heart, imprisoned in my bones; I grow weary holding back, I cannot !" (Jer 20:9) When God instructs our hearts with the knowledge of his kingdom, it isn't the kind of thing we can keep to ourselves. It must be shared. When this knowledge is shared, it bears fruit in others and deepens our own understanding of the mysteries of God's kingdom. This knowledge cannot bear fruit or grow is if we stifle it and bury it, ensuring that neither we nor those around us hear it.

This brings us to the true problem: burying knowledge of God's kingdom not only prevents others from hearing it, but it also closes our hearts to it. Notice that the first and second servants respond confidently to their master, and he invites them to share his joy in response. The third servant, however, responds in fear and complains of how demanding and harsh the master is. His heart has not been changed; he has not learned to recognize the goodness of his master.

We are called this weekend to recognize the great gift we have been given as children of the light: knowledge of God's kingdom. We know that our Father has prepared a place for us in that kingdom and that our Savior has opened the road. We have been given an incredible treasure. Following the example of the good wife in Proverbs, we are called to give praise to God by working with prudence and wisdom to share the glorious Good News of the kingdom of heaven.

Peace,
Fr. Monteleone

ST. PHILIP PREPARATORY SCHOOL

Faith, creativity, and hands-on learning were on full display at St. Philip this week! In PreK3, students explored the letter F while creating animals with Play-Doh. PreK4 continued its pumpkin investigations, and Kindergarten worked on Thanksgiving Day floats, CVC words, and special projects for Veterans Day. First graders created timelines of their lives, while third graders put their measurement skills to work by making their own measuring tools!

In celebration of All Saints Day and All Souls Day, second graders learned about these special days with Father Paul. Our Middle School students also explored the lives of the saints, creating posters, researching their contributions, and reflecting on what we can learn from their examples. In Math, students tackled polynomial factoring, while our younger readers explored figurative language. Art classes created saint portraits, and PE students developed spatial awareness and ball-control skills.

There is also plenty of excitement as our Beyond the Bell after-school clubs kick off next week! Students are looking forward to trying new activities, exploring their interests, and spending time with friends outside the classroom. From LEGO and chess to cooking and more, these clubs offer another opportunity for our Eagles to discover new talents, build friendships, and have fun. We cannot wait to see what they create and accomplish!

COME WORK WITH US

St. Philip Preparatory School is still seeking a Little Kaleidoscope Teacher for our gifted and talented program which is a part-time position. Teaching 3rd and 4th grade math and reading to our 1st and 2nd graders. 8 AM -12 PM Monday- Friday.

If you or someone you know is interested in joining our team, please visit https://rcdop.org/job-opportunities to complete an application or contact the school office for more information.

THANKSGIVING DAY

Let us come together to thank the Lord for all His goodness in our lives, both big and small.

Holy Mass on Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, November 26, 2026, will be celebrated at 9 AM.

We look forward to seeing you and your family and we pray that your hearts may be filled with joy and gratitude.

PLEASE NOTE

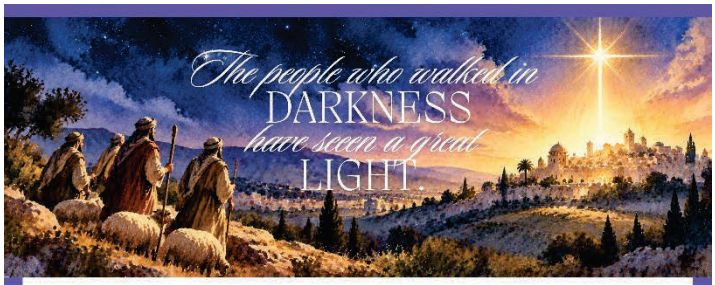

The Parish office will be closed on Thursday, November 26th, and Friday, November 27th.

A PRAYER FOR THE FAITHFUL DEPARTED

Merciful Father, into Your loving hands
we commend the souls of our departed brothers and sisters.
Forgive their sins, purify them in Your mercy,
and welcome them into the everlasting joy
of Your heavenly kingdom.
Comfort those who mourn,
strengthen our hope in the Resurrection,
and help us to live faithfully
until the day we are reunited with You and all Your saints.
Through Christ our Lord. Amen.

Eternal rest grant unto them, O Lord.
And let perpetual light shine upon them.
May they rest in peace. Amen.
May the souls of all the faithful departed,
through the mercy of God, rest in peace. Amen.

ISAIAH AND ADVENT: WHAT ARE WE WAITING FOR?

A Biblical and Spiritual Journey through the Prophecies of Isaiah

This four-session Bible study explores God's promise of the Messiah, the hope of salvation, and the call to prepare our hearts for Christ. Through Scripture, we will come to appreciate Advent not simply as a preparation for Christmas, but as a season of faith, conversion, and joyful hope as we await the coming of our Savior.

Gospel Today

Year A

33rd Sunday in Ordinary Time | Matthew 25:14-30

The parable tells of three servants given pieces of silver, or talents to use while their master was away. Two men used the talents wisely and doubled their worth. The third man buried the talent, not using it and not increasing its value. We learn we must faithfully use the gifts God gives us to be worthy servants and gain a place in the Kingdom.
